RUMKOSEY, Stuttgart

PROJECT: TPI/PLUCK

1 December 1952

1. On 1 December 1952 [ ] met RUMKOSEY in Stuttgart for the purpose of discussing his termination.

2. Derwent presented to RUMKOSEY the proposals originally discussed between himself, [ ] and [ ] these were, that in the best interests of everybody, that RUMKOSEY be resettled in another country. If RUMKOSEY did not wish to leave Germany, that we would pay his salary now for the duration of his contract until April and permit him to keep his car which we had originally bought plus a small retainer for a few months. It was explained to RUMKOSEY that we have been more than happy with his services and that due to current conditions it was felt that there would be no more work for him in the near future. Therefore, that it would be in his best interest to take this time and square himself away with the Finances and get himself a job to support himself. In spite of suggestions that it would be in RUMKOSEY's best interest for his own personal security to leave Germany and that we would help him resettle in another country, he declined the offer.

3. RUMKOSEY explained that his entire life and assets were the intelligence business. He would be more than happy to continue to work for us in any other part of the world but he did not want to leave the intelligence field. He then brought up again the question of his key money which he explained was most necessary because his wife and children were coming from Finland and he needed a place for them to live in Stuttgart. [ ] then proposed to RUMKOSEY that he would pay him the five months salary still due him under the contract. Also, that there would be no more expense money coming from us. Then a general conversation followed concerning RUMKOSEY's financial status. [ ] agreed that he could help him for three months with 200 DM per month. This proved agreeable to RUMKOSEY and he brought up the question of his car. He wanted to know if it would be possible for [ ] to help him obtain a surplus Army Volkswagen in exchange for his which is in poor condition. [ ] explained that this would be impossible. RUMKOSEY explained that he needed a car to help him get a new job as a salesman. Derwent replied that it would be alright for him to keep it.

4. RUMKOSEY was paid the 5,000 DM of his salary for the next five months. He also was paid 195 DM which represented the balance due him from his accountings with [ ] He was told that the next meeting he would have to have his accounts up-to-date and at that time he would sign a quit-claim releasing his employer from all obligations and acknowledging the receipt of the money and the car.

5. It was [ ] impression that these arrangements seemed agreeable to RUMKOSEY and that he harbored no apparent bitterness or resentment towards us. The meeting was held in an extremely friendly and affable atmosphere. It seems fairly apparent it will be only a short time after RUMKOSEY arranges his personal affairs and gets a suitable cover-job, that he will be in the intelligence
